WEATHER BULLETIN.
WASHINGTON, July 21.—For Lower Michigan—Fair; southerly winds; warmer.

LOOKING FOR A SITE.

Agents of a New York syndicate are in the city negotiating for the purchase of property at Oakdale park upon which to erect a furniture factory. For reasons best known to themselves they are not making any noise about the object of their visit, but are quietly investigating and taking observations in the southern part of the city. They represent a legitimate business enterprise which seeks a location at an advantageous point. Therefore they came to the center of the business in which they are to embark. There are no hand-wagon tactics, no bids for bonuses, no demand for special exemptions. If they can secure an acceptable option on property they will come to this city and erect a factory. If the factory is erected employment will be given to 300 workmen. That means a settlement of some 1,500 persons. It will add so much to our population and business thrift. It isn't necessary to multiply words to prove that such a factory will be a great benefit to the city. Therefore THE HERALD takes the liberty to extend the agents a hearty welcome to the city. They are invited to visit our suburbs and pass through our environs, and when they discover an eligible location for their factory the price will be made right. The improvement board will be pleased to meet the agents and extend to them every facility to prosecute their inquiries.

REPEAL WITHOUT CONDITIONS.

Senator Stockbridge expresses a fear that the purchasing clause of the Sherman act cannot be repealed except upon condition that the tax of ten per cent on state bank notes shall also be repealed. It is possible that this condition will be accorded to by the honest money democrats to appease the clamorous demands for more money of the flat money democrats. It would be better for the country if the purchasing clause of the Sherman act were repealed by a distinct and independent vote. On such a vote the republicans would be free to act in consonance with their private views and party principles. To burden the repealing act with a condition which will reduce a pledge of the national democratic platform, adopted at Chicago, would force every republican to vote against repeal and thereby curbing our present strained and disastrous financial condition. Republicanism will be ready to vote to repeal the mischievous purchasing clause, and if deemed expedient the entire act, but they will not vote to substitute another menace to prosperity to substitute another menace to prosperity.

KANSAS COMES TO THE FRONT WITH ANOTHER WAR.

Striking coal miners with Amazonian leaders in the van attacked the "strip" men engaged in the mines and a storm of shot was rained in upon them. Nobody was killed but blood was spilled and Kansas has preserved her record.

CORNELIUS RYAN KNOCKED FRED DALE DOWN AND TOOK $30 OUT OF HIS POCKETS.

Cornelius has been elected to go Jackson prison for a term of ten years. It was not the amount of money he took that fixed his term, but the nasty way he adopted to appropriate it.

ST. LOUIS BOLLERMAKERS HAVE STRUCK FOR A NINE-HOUR DAY AND TEN HOURS PAY.

They ought to win if for no other reason than that it will save an hour of misery to the neighbors on the block.

TWO LUCKY CROOKS.

Brierson and Forbes, the two daring crooks who escaped from the county jail Thursday morning, took long chances and won. The methods by which they gained access to the outer world are rather new and novel. It is surprising that they could have lowered themselves to the ground from a third story window on a white sheet against a red wall in the brilliant glare of an electric light without attracting the attention of anybody. The window from which they escaped is in full and unobstructed view from three directions. A policeman patrolled a beat along Louis and Campau streets, the line of vision between himself and the jail being uninterrupted for a considerable distance. Between the hours of 12 and 2 those two streets are rarely if ever wholly deserted. Reporters, open-night restaurant men, deputies sheriffs and belated saloon patrons may be encountered at any time of night before 2 o'clock between Pearl and Waterloo streets on Louis and Campau. Naturally these passersby take a look at the barred and grated windows of the jail.

THAT "QUIET" AT BUZZARD'S BAY WILL BE BROKEN IN A FEW DAYS AND GROVER WILL RETURN TO WASHINGTON TO ADJUST CONGRESS TO HIS OWN PECULIAR VIEWS.

MUTA WILKINS went a very fast mile at Detroit yesterday, but another horse won the race. Endurance is of greater value than speed after all.

IT IS FEARED THAT DAVID BENNETT HILL IS TAKING ADVANTAGE OF THE HOT WEATHER TO PREPARE ANOTHER SPEECH ON THE SILVER QUESTION.

That jail delivery was a mighty narrow escape for an esteemed contemporary.

JIM CORBETT IS OUT. NOT KNOCKED OUT, BUT THROWN OUT OF THE MIDWAY. IT IS WELL.

VERAQUE lost his money raising bill. Many a man has lost by raising "falls."

"SLAM OR NOT AT ALL" IS THE FRENCH BATTLE CRY.

THAT SHERMAN LAW. Senator F. B. Steiwerbridge of Kansas passed through the city last night on his way to Washington to attend the session of congress. "I am going up for a week's rest preparatory to going to Washington to attend the extra session of congress," said he to a reporter for THE HERALD. "I shall leave for the capital at 10 o'clock tomorrow. What we shall do after we get there is still in doubt. The fight against the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman law will be made in the senate. There are probably six or seven republican senators who will vote against the repeal. James Stewart of Nevada, and Teller and Wood of Colorado are pronounced advocates of free coinage, and there is no possible chance to win them over. It looks doubtful as to whether a tie repealing the law can be put through the senate.

STILL, FRENCH ENGLAND IS VERY SURE IN HIS OPPOSITION TO THE LAW, AND I DO NOT BELIEVE HE WOULD HAVE CALLED US TOGETHER HAD HE NOT BEEN CERTAIN THAT THE LAW WILL BE REPEALED.

He is too shrewd a man not to have seen sure of his ground before making the speech. He is listening every possible pressure to bear in order to keep his congressmen in line. Little patronage is being dispersed and the democrat members are not receiving assurances of anything, and will not until their chief's wishes are carried out.

WHAT I AM AFRAID OF IS THE POSSIBLE REPEAL OF THE 10 PER CENT TAX ON STATE BANKS, AND THAT THIS WILL BE OFFERED AS A SUBSTITUTE FOR THE SHERMAN LAW. THOSE SOUTHERNERS WANT CHEAP MONEY AND PLINY OF IT. I SHOULD NOT BE SURPRISED IF PRESIDENT CLEVELAND HAD MADE A DEAL WITH THEM BY WHICH THEY WERE TO VOTE FOR THE REPEAL OF THE SHERMAN LAW ON CONDITION THAT THE STATE BANK TAX LAW WOULD BE REPEALED. I AM VIGOROUSLY OPPOSED TO THE SHERMAN LAW, BUT I DO NOT WANT TO SEE IT REPEALED AT SUCH A COST. THE SUBSTITUTE WOULD BE WORSE THAN THE ORIGINAL MEASURE. I COULD NEVER BRING MYSELF TO VOTE FOR IT, BUT I AM AFRAID MANY OF THE OPPOSERS OF THE SHERMAN LAW WILL BE INDUCED TO, AND THAT THE TWO MEASURES WILL BE COUPLED TOGETHER IN SOME WAY.

CARRISLE'S SILVER VIEWS.

EDITOR HERALD.—Your neighbor, The Democrat, seems to be engaged in exploiting McKinley's views on the silver question. Why not publish Carrisle's at the time he voted for the free coinage of silver at the old ratio? Also, he voted the same way. Carrisle, with his free silver vote and speech prophesying things if silver was not given free coinage, would make interesting reading now.

IF HE OR HERBERT HAVE CHANGED THEIR VIEWS IT WAS BECAUSE THEY SAW THAT THEM OFF WITH CABINET SEATS. CARRISLE HAS NEVER REPEATED PUBLICITY OF THAT FREE SILVER HERESY.

McKinley may have been mistaken as were many others, as to the future effect of the silver purchase bill, but he was never so craven as to change his vote for the free coinage of silver. With a free silver vote as secretary of the United States treasury, no wonder the country is panicky and business men have no confidence in the financial honesty of the head of the treasury.

AND BY THE WAY, DID YOU KNOW THIS IS THE CONDITION OF THE COUNTRY UNDER DEMOCRATIC RULE?

Always was so—always will be so. State bank money and tariff for revenue only prevailed from '51 to '61, and the conditions then were as they are now—nothing settled, no certainty in business matters. Like causes produce similar results.

Hoke Smith's Versus. "Marching Through Georgia."

BY H. H. HICKET.

Bring forth the good old stars and bars, We'll fight them once again (Over southern hill and valley).

And Georgia's fortune plain: The south is in the saddle, And we're trying once again To punish them for marching Through Georgia.

CHORUS: "Hoke Smith's Versus." "We'll send the Rebels; 'Hoke Smith's Versus." "We'll bring them to their knees."

And we'll give the pension office just exactly as we please.

To punish them for marching through Georgia.

You whipped us at Anderson, And Sherman took it easy, We'll send the Rebels, We'll bring them to their knees.

You saved the southern cities, Which would have been a prize, But now you have to settle with a man about my size.

And my name is Hoke Smith, from Georgia. You stole our men and children, And thought it was a joke, But now you have to settle with a man about my size.

And you'll walk up some fine morning To find your own dead broke. To pay you for marching through Georgia.

Jay Pruden, a St. Johns missionary, is a guest in The Eagle.

"The average man hasn't formed the art of registering yet," said a hotel clerk last night. "He's all right when he's alone, but when he has a woman in charge in nine cases out of ten he has no conception of the correct thing. When a man's wife accompanies him, he ought to indicate that fact beyond the possibility of a doubt. The correct form is to register as 'Mr. and Mrs. John Jones,' not as 'John Jones and wife.' The words 'and wife' may escape notice if indistinctly written or if the hand is shaky. But there is no chance for a mistake when it is 'Mr. and Mrs. Jones.' Occasionally you find a man who registers as 'John Jones and lady.' If you ask him if that's his wife with him, he grows warm under the collar and demands an apology. Yet we have no means of knowing whether it's his wife or not. One day a well-dressed man and a handsome young woman came in for dinner. He registered as C. M. Smith and lady, and the address was a lively little town about thirty miles from here. A hotel reporter copying the register naturally supposed it was Mr. Smith's wife who was with him, and let it go that way. It wasn't Mr. Smith's wife, and he nearly had nervous prostration before he fully explained the case satisfactorily all around. If he had sense enough to have written the young woman's name on the register, or even registered as C. M. Smith and friend, a great deal of annoyance would have been averted both of them."

J. La Bree of Leyden is a guest in Sweet's. Mr. La Bree is a book publisher in that historic Dutch city, and is in Grand Rapids calling upon several of his customers. "I came over to the world's fair," said he, "last evening, and I thought I would come to Grand Rapids and see my friends here. Mr. Doornik and Mr. Hugenholz are old customers of mine and I have been visiting them. Grand Rapids seems a remarkably enterprising business-like city. Everything about it is neat and clean, the business blocks are well built, the residences large and spacious, and the grounds well kept. It is the most pleasing city of its size I have ever been in. The world's fair? It is magnificent. There is no language too strong to express my delight. I looked for something wonderful, something that would be typical of the American people; but I was not looking for anything so stupendous as the White city. It is undoubtedly the grandest exhibition that was ever conceived. I am sorry that more Europeans cannot come to Chicago and see the fair. It would modify the peculiar views so many of them have of the American people."

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hazen and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Hazen are guests in The New Livingston. W. E. Hazen is a member of the board of inspectors of the department of justice. A. Stevenson of Rockport, Indiana, another member of the board, is a guest in Sweet's. While in the city they will examine the accounts of the officers of the United States court and see that the books are all right. "Mr. Stevenson is a recently appointed member of the board," said Mr. Hazen, "and I am making this visit principally for the purpose of coaching him. We expect to be in Michigan for about a month, as it will take that long for Mr. Stevenson to become familiar with his duties." Mr. Hazen is a cousin of General Hazen, who formerly manufactured variegated weather for the upper lake region and the Mississippi valley. However, this particular member of the family never manufactured an ounce of weather, and has always tried to live an irreproachable life. Mr. Stevenson is no relation to Adlai. He is a typical Hoosier, with a flowing gray beard and twinkling blue eyes. He likes Grand Rapids, and hopes he can stay here for the next thirty days.

L. B. Feighner, S. S. Schantz, G. H. Carpenter and W. J. Curtis of Woodland are guests in The New Livingston. Mr. Feighner is editor-in-chief and business manager of the Woodland News; Mr. Carpenter is in the hardware business and Mr. Schantz is the proprietor of a large general store in that thriving Barry county village.

L. L. Church of Howard City, a republican member of the recent state legislature, drifted into the city yesterday and moved the previous question on a Morton house dinner.

W. S. Platt, editor of the Fremont Indicator, registered in Sweet's yesterday. W. A. Anderson, proprietor of the Fremont flour mill, was a guest in the same hotel also.

A. A. Blearby of Kalkaska, proprietor of Blearby's Exchange bank, and a leading real estate dealer of that village, was among yesterday's arrivals at The Morton.

F. J. Cobbs of Cadillac, a son of the president of the Cobbs & Mitchell Lumber company, was among yesterday's arrivals in The New Livingston.

B. Wolff of Montgomery, Alabama, and F. H. Brown of New Haven are guests in Sweet's. They are in the city buying furniture.

John B. Beckwith, of New York, one of the best known viceroy men visiting the Grand Rapids market, is a guest in Sweet's.

William Connor, the veteran Marshall traveling man and uncompromising democrat politician, is registered in Sweet's.

Richard L. Newnam, one of Allegan's leading attorneys, was in the city yesterday and dined in The New Livingston.

Charles F. Gates, one of North Branch's leading lawyers, is registered in The Morton.

Oil Torches.

Camp meeting season is about commencing and no one thing is more indispensable to a well regulated camp ground than a good torch. They will not exactly light your way to heaven, but they will prevent you falling into the drink. They can not be blown out, are easily cared for, economical in the burning of oil and generally desirable in every point. They can be used outside or inside. Peddlers use them, farmers use them. Everyone uses the Dangler Oil Torch when they want a good, strong steady and cheap outside light.
